CHAIRMAN'S STATEMENT

Overview

The first half has seen strong performance in the Company's portfolio following the market falls at the end of the prior year, notwithstanding the sharp setback in the immediate aftermath of the referendum on EU membership. As indicated at the year end, during 2015 the Manager, encouraged by the Board, adopted an approach of making fewer, but larger, new qualifying investments, targeting companies at the more mature end of spectrum allowed for by the VCT regulations. In conjunction with this, the Manager is tending to hold, rather than sell, shares in the successful companies, based on the recognition that the portfolio concentration that this produces as the portfolio matures is likely to be beneficial for performance. It is also a real strength which we can offer to investee companies. As a result of these factors the weighted average market capitalisation of the qualifying portfolio stood at £138m at the period end, which is a good indication of its relative maturity, and the top 10 qualifying holdings now represent 47% of the Company's Net Asset Value.

The year end report also predicted a hiatus in terms of new qualifying investment opportunities of sufficiently good quality following the introduction of the new VCT legislation last November. HMRC's draft guidance on this legislation was published in May, and is expected to be finalised later this year. Views on the draft guidance were sought, and the AIC made a substantial submission of recommendations on the guidance, which was supported by a submission from Amati Global Investors.

Against this backdrop, one new qualifying investment was made during the period, and we expect the pace of new investment to pick up somewhat in the second half, albeit below levels seen in the last few years. The reduced number of opportunities, combined with the £5m limit on any single fund raising from all VCTs and EIS investors, means that new investments of good quality are likely to be highly sought after, and hence significantly over-subscribed in respect of the qualifying shares. This means that the Manager's ambition to take larger initial positions may be hard to realise whilst this situation persists.

Investment Performance and Dividend

The NAV Total Return for the six month period was 10.6%, which compares to a rise of 9.8% for the FTSE AIM All-Share Total Return Index. Performance was significantly boosted by a sharp rise in the value of the Company's largest single investment, Accesso, which continues its impressive progress. Overall performance remained ahead of the wider AIM market, despite the disappointment of having to write down the value of two loan note holdings. Full details are given in the Manager's review.

The dividend policy of the Company is to pay between five and six percent of year-end net asset value, subject to the availability of liquidity and sufficient distributable reserves. In line with this the Board is declaring an interim dividend of 2.75p per share, to be paid on 25 November 2016 to shareholders on the register on 14 October 2016.

Other Corporate Developments

A joint top up offer with Amati VCT was launched in October 2015, raising a total of £5.6m when the offer closed on 15 July 2016, of which £2.7m was subscribed for shares in Amati VCT 2.

Outlook

There have been a number of positive developments in the portfolio companies over the past six months, and this creates a healthy backdrop for future performance, notwithstanding the uncertainties that will arise from political developments in both Europe and the US over the coming year. The Board is also confident that there will be further opportunities to make attractive qualifying investments on AIM. Given the high weighting of qualifying holdings held by the Company, the Manager is under no pressure to make investments which do not meet the demanding quality criteria sought.

FUND MANAGER'S REVIEW

Market Review

After significant market weakness in early January 2016, driven by fears of slowing global growth and mirrored in a slumping oil price, UK stocks reached a turning point around the middle of the month. The catalysts for this can be traced to comments from both the Bank of England and the European Central Bank (“ECB”), to the effect that, in response to the economic outlook, a rise in UK interest rates would be delayed and further EU monetary stimulus was likely. In March the ECB duly cut interest rates and announced further quantitative easing. A continued environment of ultra-accommodative policy boosted all capital markets, and the UK enjoyed a strong rebound, reaching a high point for the period immediately before the EU referendum in late June. The unexpected result initially created a high degree of investor uncertainty, causing UK equities and sterling to sell off dramatically, but a rapid transition to a new government stabilised concerns and saw the stock market return to its previous high by the end of the period, amidst the realisation that the Brexit process wasn't going to begin any time soon.

Index leadership came from large, FTSE 100 companies, influenced by a renewed appetite for resources stocks, but also from an upgrading of international earnings following the weakness of sterling late in the period. Smaller companies, including AIM stocks, also performed well, but mid-sized, FTSE 250 companies lagged due to a heavier dependency on UK based earnings within a more uncertain economic outlook. Sector patterns were polarised, with international mining, technology and industrials dominating amongst gainers, whilst domestically exposed construction and housebuilding suffered heavy losses.

Performance

The NAV Total Return for the six month period was 10.6%. This compares to the FTSE AIM All Share Total Return over the same period of 9.8%. Mirroring the broader market, the period began with a fall in the Company's NAV before a significant rebound between the months of March and May. The surprise Brexit vote sent the Company's NAV Total Return down 8.3% in June before rebounding by 8.7% in July.

The best performer over the period was Accesso Technology Group (“Accesso”), a business with which long-standing shareholders will be familiar. The shares ended the period 70% higher following a strong start to 2016 with good organic growth across all divisions and eighteen new contract wins, including deals for Accesso Passport, the group's hosted ticketing ecommerce solution, with the Henry Ford Museum in Michigan and the Pacific Science Centre in Seattle. In addition to these new client wins, Passport continues to be rolled-out across Merlin Entertainment's global estate. With over 90% of revenues billed in US Dollars from North American customers, the attractions of Accesso have been enhanced by the post-Brexit sterling weakness. As this is a very significant position in the portfolio (10.7%), movements in the share price will tend to dwarf the impact of other stocks. However, we are reluctant to reduce our exposure yet, as we still see good opportunities ahead for the business, and it would be hard to find a new investment in something as attractive. The second most important contributor to performance was SRT Marine Systems (“SRT”, formerly Software Radio Technology), which was awarded a contract to supply the Panama Canal with its GeoVS maritime display and data management system. This order is part of the canal's investment to increase its shipping capacity and the recognition that more shipping traffic will require technologies, such as those developed by SRT, to enhance the situational awareness and control of the operators. This contract followed another significant deal with Indonesia for the development and implementation of a national integrated maritime system, which is expected to generate revenues of $100 million to SRT over a three year period. To put this into context, SRT reported revenues of £10.8 million for the full year to March 2016. The impact of the positive news sent the shares 186% higher over the period. Quixant, the Cambridge-based designer and developer of hardware and software for the gaming industry, was another strong performer, its shares rising 48% as it bedded in its acquisition of Densitron Technologies, an AIM-listed screen manufacturing business. The combination of the two businesses allows Quixant to augment its computing units with gaming monitors, gaining a greater share of the cost of each gaming machine unit sold. Over the course of 2016, Densitron should double the size of the group and expand the offering into other verticals besides gaming. AB Dynamics gained 64% over the period, bucking the trend of disappointing trading and share price performance in the engineering sector. AB Dynamics' focus on providing critical safety testing equipment to automotive manufacturers with big investment plans for next generation cars has, thus far, stood the business in good stead. Sales to North American and Far Eastern customers were particularly strong and the continued advance towards autonomous cars is expected to drive continued demand for AB Dynamics' products. A share price rise of 59% for Keywords Studios ("Keywords") followed a very busy period, during which five acquisitions were completed. Keywords, whose CEO gave a memorable presentation to investors following Amati VCT 2's AGM in June, has delivered a sequence of positive earnings surprises as it continues to make well-priced acquisitions of service providers to the global video games industry. The industry is consolidating as games publishing customers seek fewer suppliers with a broad suite of capabilities in multiple geographies and Keywords has established itself as a key player in this process. Their strategy has driven revenues from £4.8 million in 2010 to £49.5 million in 2015.

The most significant negative performers during the period were both convertible loan note holdings in businesses with overseas operations. We took the decision to write-off the value of the Company's holding in RAME Energy ("RAME"), a specialist in developing wind-farms in Chile. RAME was unable to complete a fundraising in time over the summer, for a variety of reasons. The shares were delisted from AIM and administrators were subsequently appointed. RAME's Chilean subsidiary has now been sold for $1.2m, and a distribution should be made to the unsecured creditors of the company over the next couple of months, possibly in the range of 15-25% of the amounts outstanding, although there is no certainty of that yet. Polyhedra, an unquoted holding with operations in Italy, continued to disappoint. Polyhedra relies on key contracts with the Italian state for the disposal of pharmaceutical products and these are subject to periodic review. As it became increasingly likely that its most significant contract would not renew, we wrote-down the remaining value of the Company's convertible loan note instrument to nil. Solid State was one of the Company's best performing holdings in 2015 but disappointed in the period under review. The shares fell sharply following confirmation that its contract with the Ministry of Justice for electronic tagging hardware had been terminated due to the government abandoning the project. Whilst disappointing, we have maintained the Company's position in Solid State as it is sufficiently diverse to cope with this loss and we are confident that it will return to solid levels of growth. Frontier Developments also fell during the period, having seen a delay to the release of a major update to its game Elite Dangerous: Horizons. The company is due to release the first version of a new game franchise, Coaster Park Tycoon, by the end of 2016.

Portfolio Activity

Qualifying Portfolio

The Company made only one new qualifying investment during the period, alongside one small 'follow-on' investment in an existing holding. This represents a quiet period for qualifying activity and it is important to put this into context. The most recent changes to the VCT legislation became effective in November 2015. The widespread nature of these changes were reported in the most recent annual report and the result has been a slow-down in the absolute number of available investment opportunities and in those that meet our strict selection criteria. The sources of our deals are broking firms that advise AIM listed companies and these firms are inevitably going through a process of understanding the rules and the implications for their clients' capital raising plans. We maintain an active dialogue with the brokers on the characteristics that we are looking for under the new rules. We expected a much reduced level of new investment for a period, but are now seeing progress, which is translating into signs of an improved number of new investment opportunities.

The new qualifying investment was in Genedrive (formerly Epistem), a molecular diagnostics company. The value of Genedrive lies in a point of care diagnostic tool of the same name, which has been developed to provide a low cost, versatile and simple to use diagnostics platform for the diagnosis of infectious disease and for use in patient stratification (personalised medicine), pathogen detection and other indications. The first market for the Genedrive platform is in India, where a tuberculosis (TB) test has been developed for sale. TB is an epidemic in India and the device is being targeted at 5,000 private laboratories that conduct tests for the disease. A Hepatitis C test is due for launch in 2017 and Genedrive is working with the US Department of Defence to develop a test which can identify pathogens for the purposes of protection against biological warfare. The Company invested £0.3 million in the fundraising. We sought to invest more, but the issue was heavily over-subscribed.

The small follow-on investment (less than £0.1 million) referred to was made in Fox Marble, as part of a fund raise to finance the completion of its factory for the cutting and polishing of marble extracted from the company's quarries in Kosovo and Macedonia. The factory is expected to be commissioned in autumn 2016 and should provide the catalyst for both revenues and margins to increase.

The level of selling activity in the qualifying portfolio was also muted. The only sale during the period consisted of a partial reduction in the Company's holding of TLA Worldwide ("TLA"), the sports player representation and marketing business. TLA was the subject of a takeover bid by a US listed cash shell, led by the management team. The consideration was structured as a mixture of cash and shares in the new shell. The anticipated demand for the new vehicle amongst US institutions was not as strong as originally anticipated and the board of TLA withdrew its recommendation for the offer. Our decision to reduce the Company's position reflected our view on the likelihood of completion. A total of £0.3 million was realised.

Non-Qualifying Portfolio

Activity in the non-qualifying portfolio was restricted to a further investment in the TB Amati UK Smaller Companies Fund (the "Fund"), which totalled £0.7 million. For the six month period, the Fund performed in line with its benchmark, gaining 7.4% against the Numis Smaller Companies (inc AIM ex Investment Trusts) Index Total Return of 7.6%.

Outlook

The immediate aftermath of the EU referendum has been an environment in which every item of macroeconomic and market sentiment data published for the UK has been heavily scrutinised. So far the interpretation is that whilst there was a degree of slowdown in domestic economic activity before the vote, there has been no marked change in direction thereafter, perhaps in no small part due to the massive new injection of liquidity announced by the Bank of England. The stock market has responded positively to this, with all indices now well above the levels of late June. The UK is, however, barely at the beginning of a long and complex Brexit process, which is likely to extend for several years. The stock market will not only have to address the final negotiated outcomes for major issues, such as access to the single market with or without labour mobility, but also the intervening impact of structurally weak sterling, lower interest rates, higher inflation, and a likely worsening spending deficit alongside fiscal stimulus. The portfolio remains focused on dynamic smaller companies, many of which are achieving durable growth from a combination of technology, intellectual property or strong market position. These types of company were amongst the first to bounce following the referendum, and should be less affected by an unpredictable outlook for the UK economy, particularly where they have significant overseas earnings.

NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

for the six months ended 31 July 2016

1. The Half-yearly financial report covers the six months ended 31 July 2016. The Company applies FRS 102 and the AIC's Statement of Recommended Practice issued in November 2014 as adopted for its financial year ended 31 January 2016. The financial statements for this six month period have been prepared in accordance with FRS 104 and on the basis of the same accounting policies as set out in the Company's Annual Report and Financial Statements for the year ended 31 January 2016.

The comparative figures for the financial year ended 31 January 2016 have been extracted from the latest published audited Annual Report and Financial Statements. Those accounts have been reported on by the Company's auditor and lodged with the Registrar of Companies. The report of the auditor was (i) unqualified, (ii) did not include a reference to any matters to which the auditors drew attention by way of emphasis without qualifying their report, and (iii) did not contain a statement under section 498 (2) or (3) of the Companies Act 2006.

2. The financial information set out in this report has not been audited and does not comprise full financial statements within the meaning of Section 434 of the Companies Act 2006. No statutory accounts in respect of any period after 31 January 2016 have been reported on by the Company's auditors or delivered to the Registrar of Companies.

3. Going concern

In accordance with FRC Guidance for directors on going concern and liquidity risk the directors are of the opinion that, at the time of approving the Half-yearly Report, the Company has adequate resources to continue in business for the foreseeable future. In reaching this conclusion the directors took into account the nature of the Company's business and Investment Policy, its risk management policies, the diversification of its portfolio, the cash holdings and the liquidity of non-qualifying investments. Thus the directors believe it is appropriate to continue to apply the going concern basis in preparing the financial statements.

4. Segmental reporting

The Directors are of the opinion that the Company is engaged in a single segment of business, being investment business.

5. Copies of the Half-yearly report are being sent to all shareholders. Further copies are available free of charge from Amati Global Investors by telephoning 0131 503 9115 or email vct-enquiries@amatiglobal.com.
